Topic Covered: Attitude

Introduction

Attitude is how you feel, think, and act towards things, people, or ideas. It can be positive (good outcomes), negative (not so good), or somewhere in between. Here's a quick breakdown:

It's a mix of feelings, thoughts, and actions towards stuff or people.

It can make you act in a certain way – good or not so good.

1. Three Parts of Attitude:

Thinking (Cognitive): What you believe about something.

Feeling (Affective): How you feel about it emotionally.

Doing (Conative): How you act or behave toward it.

2. Attitude Reactions:

Positive: Good vibes, good outcomes.

Negative: Not-so-good vibes, not-so-good outcomes.

Dual: Sometimes you feel two different ways.

Indifference: When you don't really care.

3. Influences on Attitude:

Parents: Family shapes your beliefs and feelings.

Friends: Your plans and groups influence how you see things.

4. How Attitudes Form:

Conditioning: Sometimes your feelings are learned, and not always logical.

Reinforcement: Acting in a certain way because you got something good out of it.

Balance Theory: People like things to make sense and match up.

5. Why It Matters:

Attitude affects how you make decisions and act.

Understanding your attitude helps you get why you do certain things.

This is like a quick guide to understand attitudes –how you think, feel, and act can shape your world.
